

Learning Lockers

Each Learning Objective contains a Learning Locker. The Learning Locker also appears within FrogProgress' progression charts, providing quick access to resources and quizzes.

Within this pop-up, you can link add a Lesson Resource and Quizzes for quick access. This lesson resource can be a document or Frog site. Frog quizzes can be assigned directly to students from here. Those schools using FrogProgress will see the students' quiz results returned as evidence in your progression chart.

Teacher Notes contains a rich-text editor, allowing you to add detailed guides for you and your colleagues. The editor even allows you to add link and add or paste in tables. If you are considering using Curriculum Designer as a place to store lesson plans, you can use the Teacher Notes section for this,

You could do similar using the Teacher Resources section. Here you can add document, quizzes, site links and internet links.

Any resource you add can have additional notes added. Once you click Save, you can then access the resource to either view or download it, or to assign it to your students.

Any resources added here unintentionally can be deleted using the Remove option.

The next section, Exemplar Standard Material is included primarily for our FrogProgress schools. When making judgements of student work against an objective it is important that you can identify what to look for when making that judgement. This should be done during curriculum conversations and updated with your own examples as you review the curriculum. You can upload examples here and if you have approval rights to Curriculum Designer, you will be able to approve or delete the examples. Approved examples will be the only ones visible with Progression Charts and published online.

Learner Resources enables you to add materials for students and parents to access via the published view and through My Progress and My Child's Progress. For FrogLearn schools, this is a handy way of sharing self-study material which does not need to be assigned. For FrogProgress schools, these resources can help children to independently work on areas where they are not on track.
