Frog Education is a leading UK education technology company providing powerful solutions to transform learning around the world; providing schools, industry, public sector and not-for-profit organisations with bespoke platforms for learning, outreach and system-wide transformation.

Frog Education enter Australian market with state-wide Government digital transformation deal to modernise and transform school operations.

UK based Frog Education has forged a partnership with Civica, a global educational provider which will see their world-class Learning Management and Progress solution integrated with their market-leading, cloud-based software to transform education in Australia.

The South Australian Department for Education hopes its school tech overhaul will save educators' time and improve transparency for parents and caregivers.

The combined solution will be rolled out to over 900 schools and pre-schools and will allow educators to develop their curriculums, assess and review performance beyond the limitations of yearly standards; enabling every teacher to teach every child as if they are the only pupil in the class.

The deal sees Frog Education gaining a 6% market share of all Australian schools, providing a further platform for growth.

For over 20 years, Frog Education has delivered outstanding education through the use of technology which has ultimately changed the way that schools and teachers teach. As an education technology leader in the UK, operating in 26 countries and 14,000 schools, including national rollouts for every school in Malaysia and Denmark, this partnership takes forward the vision of ensuring everyone has a world class education further around the globe.

“Frog’s technology has been specially built in partnership to address issues such as reducing teacher workload whilst maximising the potential for the growth of every child in every class. This is another example of Frog being part of education transformation around the world.”
